

Looking for part-time or temporary staff?

Then look no further

Newcastle University Careers Service can offer you a free, fast and effective method of advertising your part-time and seasonal vacancies to thousands of students looking for work.

On your behalf, we will:

- Advertise your vacancies free of charge
- Link your business to students looking for temporary or permanent part-time, casual or full-time seasonal roles
- Give you access to students with specific skills currently looking for work

“As a company that requires part-time foreign language speakers, often at short notice, the Careers Service has proved invaluable in helping us fill positions. The service is always prompt and a good standard of candidate has always applied. When a new position arises, they are always the first people that we turn to.”

James Thorley, Senior Account Manager, nLearning Ltd

Careers Service
where opportunities begin

Meet students face-to-face at our part-time job fairs:

We hold part-time job fairs twice a year in partnership with Northumbria University which allow you to directly engage with students currently looking for work. For a minimal cost, this is an excellent opportunity to promote part-time and seasonal jobs, in your business, to thousands of students from both universities.

“ The Careers Service provided easy access to students looking for part-time and seasonal work. The quality and enthusiasm of the students is impressive. Many of the students recruited have remained with us for several years while undertaking their courses, saving us the hassle of repeated recruitment drives and staff training. ”

Clare Patton, Secretary, Derwent Reservoir Sailing Club

To advertise your vacancies, please visit our website at www.ncl.ac.uk/careers/employers and fill in the pro-forma in our Vacancies section.
