

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to Chemistry at Newcastle!

During your stay at Newcastle we hope you have a happy and successful time. You should feel free to approach staff about problems, be they academic, financial or personal, as they arise: look at the Help page.

There is a welcome meeting for all new students on Monday, 21 September at 10.30 am in Lecture Theatre 3 in the Bedson Building.

There are additional welcome meetings for Joint Honours and Natural Science degree students as indicated on the Induction week timetables.

Central Induction is on Wednesday, 23 September at 1.00 pm in Kings Hall, Armstrong Building

All students will be asked to register on their programme of study and update their personal details using the new on-line system. Full instructions on how to register online have been sent to your University e-mail address.

You will still need to attend your school during Induction Week (Monday 21st to Friday 25th September), to meet with your tutor, confirm your module choices, and to take part in the induction activities specific to the new stage of your degree programme. Please note that you must see your personal tutor before completing module choices.

Everyone should consult the Notice Boards (in the corridor outside the Faraday Room) frequently; pigeon holes are provided (same corridor) for student mail and messages and these should be checked daily. Students should also check their e-mail at frequent intervals during term.

This Handbook is edited by Dr Christine Bleasdale

