The Network control panel will display a list of adapters and protocols installed on your system.

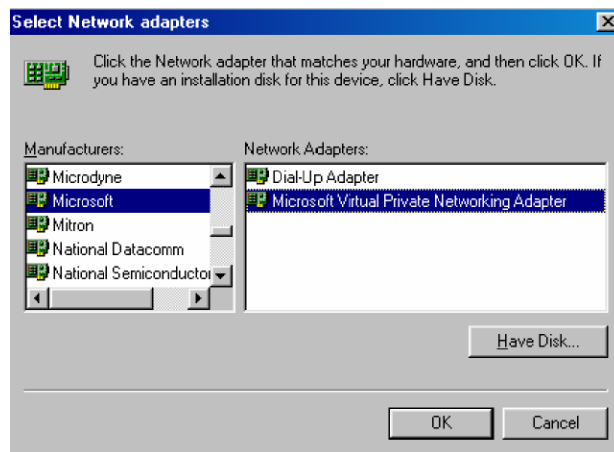

If you do not see the Microsoft VPN Adapter and Dial-Up Networking Adapter listed, you will need to install them. Click the Add... button to select the adapters that are missing.

Select Adapter and then click the Add button.

Select Microsoft from the list of Manufacturers and then select Microsoft Virtual Private Networking Adapter from the list of Network Adapters.

Click OK to complete the selection. Your computer may ask you for a Windows 98 setup CD and then prompt you to restart the system.

Once you have the VPN Adapter installed, you are ready to create a new VPN connection.
