10 Programme Aims

- 1 To enable students to pursue the specialist study of creative work in music, drawing as appropriate on the whole range of activities currently practised, and producing either a large-scale creative project or several smaller projects
- 2 To foster creative imagination and intellectual rigour through active engagement with relevant artistic and academic debates
- 3 To encourage the development of critical and original approaches
- 4 To make available state-of-the-art resources for production, composition, performance and recording of music
- 5 To support pursuit of musical practice with a range of complementary studies

11 Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, qualities, skills and other attributes in the following areas.

Knowledge and Understanding

On completing the programme students should have engaged with:

- A1 A range of repertoires, techniques and creative practices currently pursued by professional musical practitioners, i.e. composers, performers and others
- A2 Current artistic and scholarly debates concerning musical creativity and its realisation through composition, performance and other practices

Teaching and Learning Methods

Basic approaches are established in Research Training seminars at the outset. Thereafter, the main methods through which knowledge and understanding are acquired are one-to-one teaching (e.g. with an instrumental teacher, for performers, or a composition teacher), together with seminars and workshops, in which students share experiences, debate ideas and benefit from specialist presentations (e.g. master classes). A high level of private study activity – reading, listening, study of existing repertoires, personal creative work – is assumed throughout, and this feeds into the classes and tutorials.

Assessment Strategy

Assessed through creative work, presented in the form appropriate to the material (recital, portfolio of scores or recordings, etc), together with supporting written commentary. Supporting (optional) modules are assessed in ways appropriate to their subject matter (written project, portfolio, etc.). Students opting to do a dissertation emphasise the discursive aspect of their understanding and are assessed accordingly.

Intellectual Skills

On completing the programme students should be able to:

- B1 critically evaluate arguments, evidence and musical processes
- B2 extrapolate theories and concepts from detailed data (including musical texts) and, conversely, applying theories and concepts to data.

Teaching and Learning Methods
Basic approaches are established in Research Training seminars at the outset. Thereafter, the main methods through which knowledge and understanding are acquired are one-to-one teaching (e.g. with an instrumental teacher, for performers, or a composition teacher), together with seminars and workshops, in which students share experiences, debate ideas and benefit from specialist presentations (e.g. master classes). A high level of private study activity – reading, listening, study of existing repertoires, personal creative work – is assumed throughout, and this feeds into the classes and tutorials. In addition, students taking taught modules in specific technical areas (e.g. arrangement, orchestration, studio technologies) benefit from focussed lectures, seminars and tutorials in those areas

Supporting (optional) modules are assessed in ways appropriate to their subject matter (written project, portfolio, etc.). Students opting to do a dissertation emphasise the discursive aspect of their understanding and are assessed accordingly.
Practical Skills
On completing the programme students should have acquired:
C1 Technical skills (in e.g. composition, performance, studio technologies) appropriate to specific fields of creative work, and the ability to create new work using such skills, as demonstrated in particular through self-designed music projects. C2 Critical understanding of, and engagement with, existing musical work and practice. C3 Relation of such skills and understanding to broader social and cultural debates and situations.
Teaching and Learning Methods

Transferable/Key Skills
On completing the programme students should be experienced with:
D1 Competence in written and oral communication, presentation and computer literacy D2 Ability to work independently, through self-management of time and learning methods D3 Critical and creative thought
Teaching and Learning Methods
These are introduced in the research training module. All students are required to produce written work to high standards of presentation, to give oral presentations, and to demonstrate critical skills and good self-management; feedback on students' development in these areas is given continuously in seminars and tutorials.
Assessment Strategy
Written communication, presentation, IT skills, critical and independent thought and time management are all assessed through a combination of creative project and commentary. Oral communication is assessed in the research training module, and informally thereafter.

12 Programme Curriculum, Structure and Features
Basic structure of the programme
The programme is studied over one year full-time or two years part-time, and is based on attendance for a full academic year. The programme requires completion of modules with a total credit value of 180. Modules vary in size from 30 to 90 credits. Each 10 credits assumes 100 hours of student work, encompassing attendance at classes, private study and completion of assessed work. All students take between one and three creative projects accompanied by a project commentary, and begin with a research training module. Remaining credits are made up from supporting modules in technical subjects, a dissertation, and/or modules chosen from other masters programmes in music, undergraduate programmes in music, and other programmes offered by the University. The field of creative project work is in principle free, and is agreed between student and supervisor. By virtue of available module choices, students can choose to work in one or more fields, and also to weight their efforts more towards projects or more towards taught subjects.
Key features of the programme (including what makes the programme distinctive)
The compulsory taught modules will be timetabled to accommodate the professional commitments of part-time students. This may include evening and weekend sessions. The programme will be enriched by the ongoing ICMuS Research Forum series, in which visiting experts address the postgraduate community.

14 Support for Student Learning
The Student Services portal provides links to key services and other information and is available at: http://www.ncl.ac.uk/students/ Induction During the first week of the first semester students attend an induction programme. New students will be given a general introduction to University life and the University's principle support services and general information about the School and their programme, as described in the Degree Programme Handbook. New and continuing students will be given detailed programme information and the timetable of lectures/practicals/labs/ tutorials/etc. The International Office offers an additional induction programme for overseas students.

Study skills support

Students will learn a range of Personal Transferable Skills, including Study Skills, as outlined in the Programme Specification. Some of this material, e.g. time management is covered in the appropriate Induction Programme. Students are explicitly tutored on their approach to both group and individual projects.

Numeracy support is available through Maths Aid and help with academic writing is available from the Writing Centre (further information is available from the Robinson Library).

Academic support

The initial point of contact for a student is with a lecturer or module leader, or their tutor (see below) for more generic issues. Thereafter the Degree Programme Director or Head of School may be consulted. Issues relating to the programme may be raised at the Staff-Student Committee, and/or at the Board of Studies.

Pastoral support

All students are assigned a personal tutor whose responsibility is to monitor the academic performance and overall well-being of their tutees. In addition the University offers a range of support services, including one-to-one counselling and guidance or group sessions / workshops on a range of topics, such as emotional issues e.g. Stress and anxiety, student finance and budgeting, disability matters etc. There is specialist support available for students with dyslexia and mental health issues. Furthermore, the Union Society operates a Student Advice Centre, which can provide advocacy and support to students on a range of topics including housing, debt, legal issues etc.

Support for students with disabilities

The University's Disability Support Service provides help and advice for disabled students at the University - and those thinking of coming to Newcastle. It provides individuals with: advice about the University's facilities, services and the accessibility of campus; details about the technical support available; guidance in study skills and advice on financial support arrangements; a resources room with equipment and software to assist students in their studies.

Learning resources

The University's main learning resources are provided by the Robinson and Walton Libraries (for books, journals, online resources), and Information Systems and Services, which supports campus-wide computing facilities.

All new students whose first language is not English are required to take an English Language Proficiency Test. This is administered by INTO Newcastle University Centre on behalf of Newcastle University. Where appropriate, in-session language training can be provided. The INTO Newcastle University Centre houses a range of resources which may be particularly appropriate for those interested in an Erasmus exchange.

15 Methods for evaluating and improving the quality and standards of teaching and learning

Module reviews

All modules are subject to review by questionnaires which are considered by the Board of Studies. Changes to, or the introduction of new, modules are considered at the Board of Studies and/or the School Teaching and Learning Committee. Student opinion is sought at the Staff-Student Committee and/or the Board of Studies. New modules and major changes to existing modules are subject to approval by the Faculty Teaching and Learning Committee.

Programme reviews

The Board of Studies conducts an Annual Monitoring and Review of the degree programme and reports to Faculty Teaching and Learning Committee. The FTLC takes an overview of all programmes within the Faculty and reports any Faculty or institutional issues to the University Teaching and Learning Committee.

External Examiner reports

External Examiner reports are considered by the Board of Studies. The Board responds to these reports through Faculty Teaching and Learning Committee. External Examiner reports are shared with institutional student representatives, through the Staff-Student Committee.

Student evaluations

All modules, and the degree programme, are subject to review by student questionnaires. Informal student evaluation is also obtained at the Staff-Student Committee, and the Board of Studies. The results from student surveys are considered as part of the Annual Monitoring and Review of the programme and any arising actions are captured at programme and School / institutional level and reported to the appropriate body.

Mechanisms for gaining student feedback

Feedback is channelled via the Staff-Student Committee and the Board of Studies.

Faculty and University Review Mechanisms

The programme is subject to the University's Internal Subject Review process. Every five years degree programmes in each subject area are subject to periodic review. This involves both the detailed consideration of a range of documentation, and a two-day review visit by a review team which includes an external subject specialist in addition to University and Faculty representatives. Following the review a report is produced, which forms the basis for a decision by University Teaching and Learning Committee on whether the programmes reviewed should be re-approved for a further five year period.
