Sometimes you might not want the page numbers shown in your header or footer to be the same as the actual page numbers. For example, if you need to number preliminary pages (e.g. contents) using Roman numerals i.e. i, ii, iii and the rest of the document using Arabic numerals i.e. 1, 2, 3, starting from elsewhere in the document at page 1.

To change the format of page numbering later in your document, firstly apply your initial page numbering format then divide the document into sections and unlink them, move to the next section of your document and then display the page numbering and choose the new format and the starting value.

To add page numbers centrally to the bottom of your pages, with your preliminary pages in Roman numerals, then the rest of your document in Arabic numerals do the following:

Click Insert > Page Number > Format Page Number and select Roman numerals from the drop down list in the Number format field and click OK.
