

How to...use the 'How to...' guides

The aim of the 'How to...' guides is to provide an easily accessible reminder of some of the key parts of clinical practice. They will be available to you on Blackboard for the rest of your course.

The 'How to...' guides provide basic information that you are required to know from the start of your clinical placement. It is expected that by the end of the first semester you will have developed skills and knowledge in these areas that go beyond the guides.

It is not necessary to print them out (...it will cost you) you will be given the same information at some stage in a module.

It is expected that you will refer to them frequently and demonstrate the knowledge.

The 'How to...' guides have been compiled using material from several different modules, written by past and present clinical educators. You will hear and see this information in other places and it will soon become very familiar to you.

Information and resources specific to your in-house clinic will be available from your Clinical Educators and on Blackboard.