Q1T4: Linguistics with Chinese/Japanese

Year Abroad going into Stage 3

1. Do your research

Read through the information on the SELLL website carefully and ask if you have any questions. If you're unsure of what modules you should be choosing, email UGOffice.elll@newcastle.ac.uk.

2. Sign up Online: Wednesday 30th April, from 9am

- Have the rules for your programme, from this brochure, with you when you log onto The Student Portal. <https://studentportal.ncl.ac.uk/>.
- Compulsory modules will already be selected and optional modules will be listed for you to choose.
- The portal will close on 12th May at 8:00pm.
- Further guidance and screenshots are available here: <https://www.ncl.ac.uk/students/student-portal/>.

FAQs

How do I take an outside module?

Modules not listed on your degree regulations will not appear in this brochure and will not be available to you in the Student Portal. Instead you will need to select 'HSS dummy module(s)'. Then you will need to fill in a module change form at the beginning of Semester 1 to change from the dummy module to your chosen outside module.

How long will module selection take?

A few minutes.

What if I suffer technical problems?

Please don't panic. You can call IT on 0191 208 5559 to log the issue. Alternatively, you can email elll@ncl.ac.uk and we will try to assist you.

Will I get my first choice of modules?

Not necessarily. We recommend that you login and submit your choices as soon as possible. We'd also recommend having back-up modules in mind, in case your first choices are full. This is why it's important to read the module descriptions and make your decisions before the portal opens.

I need further advice and guidance. Who should I ask?

If your question is in regard to a specific module, please contact the module leader listed in the module descriptions, via email. If the module leader is to be confirmed (TBC), the head of subject is listed and will also be able to answer your questions. If you don't understand your programme regulations please contact your Degree Programme Director (DPD): Daniel.Duncan@newcastle.ac.uk. If, after reading the module descriptions, you're struggling to decide which modules to take you can contact your personal tutor via email.

I had arranged to have a semester abroad next year. What should I do?

If you haven't done so already, please contact Niamh Kelly (Niamh.kelly@newcastle.ac.uk) to discuss your options.

What if I change my mind or make a mistake?

If your choices do not comply with your regulations, they will be rejected and we will contact you to choose all your modules again – if you do not respond by the given deadline, modules will be chosen for you. If you change your mind you will be given the opportunity to change your modules at a later date. Further information will be released closer to the time.

Rules of your Programme

You must have a total of 120 credits with either a 60/60, 50/70 or 70/50 credit split across the semesters

Circle or highlight your choices, then add up your credits in the total column

JPN4013 – Level C (HE Advanced) Japanese 1

Module Leader: Ms Etsuko Suda

Semesters 1, 20 credits total

Pre-requisites: the students are expected to have completed Japanese language level B (JPN2010).

This module provides students with upper intermediate/advanced language competence to cope with the linguistic demands of real life in general. Students will build upon the achievements made during the year abroad in Japan, increasing their knowledge of vocabulary and grammatical structures at intermediate and post-intermediate levels. They will be able to read a wide range of un-edited materials (e.g., literary works, newspapers, essays, magazines, etc.) dealing with a variety of topics and to understand a wide range of spoken Japanese (e.g., news, TV dramas, etc.).

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Written exam	End	50	Written assessment containing kanji, vocabulary, grammar, reading and writing
Portfolio	Mid	25	Online kanji & vocabulary exercises and writing/translation exercise
Oral presentation	Mid	25	Presentation using slides

JPN4014 – Level C (HE Advanced) Japanese 2

Module Leader: Ms Etsuko Suda

Semesters 2, 20 credits total

Pre-requisites: the students are expected to have completed Japanese language level B (JPN2010) and level C 1 (JPN4013).

This module provides students with upper intermediate/advanced language competence to cope with the linguistic demands of real life in general. Students will build upon the achievements made during the year abroad in Japan, increasing their knowledge of vocabulary and grammatical structures at intermediate and post-intermediate levels. ## JPN4062: Level D (HE Further Advanced) Japanese 1

Module Leader: Mrs Kumi Casey

Semesters 1, 20 credits total

Pre-requisites: JPN4010 Level C (for those students who started with Level B) or streaming test for access to Level D for those students who started with level A.

This module provides students with academic competence in advanced Japanese. Students will master vocabulary, grammatical structures, writing and speaking styles at an advanced level. By the end of the module, students will be able to write in a variety of written Japanese styles; students will be able to read a wide range of real-world texts; students will have developed the ability to converse confidently in the target language.

In addition to the above objectives, this module also aims to

- 1) To develop an appropriate level of intercultural sensitivity in students to enable successful interpersonal communication in a range of different situations.
- 2) To continue to equip students with the necessary skills to become better language learners.

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Written exam	End	40	Reading and comprehension, grammar, kanji script test and Business Japanese
Digital exam	Mid	20	Translation: Canvas online test
Professional skill	Mid	40	Writing and Speaking: Sakubun 400 characters and oral presentation
Portfolio	Mid	Formative	Business Japanese: individual tasks and group tasks are given in class

JPN4063: Level D (HE Further Advanced) Japanese 2

Module Leader: Mrs Kumi Casey

Semesters 2, 20 credits total

Pre-requisites: JPN4063

This module provides students with academic competence in advanced Japanese. Students will master vocabulary, grammatical structures, writing and speaking styles at an advanced level. By the end of the module, students will be able to write in a variety of written Japanese styles; students will be able to read a wide range of real-world texts; students will have developed the ability to converse confidently in the target language.

In addition to the above objectives, this module also aims to

- 1) To develop an appropriate level of intercultural sensitivity in students to enable successful interpersonal communication in a range of different situations.
- 2) To continue to equip students with the necessary skills to become better language learners.

CHN4013: Level C (HE Advanced) Chinese 1

Module Leader: Dr Fang Su

Semesters 1, 20 credits total

Pre-requisites: CHN2010

This module aims to provide students with comprehension skills of upper intermediate/advanced levels to cope with the linguistic demands of real life in general, personal and social contexts. Students will increase their knowledge of vocabulary and grammatical structures at intermediate and post-intermediate levels. By the end of the module, students will be able to converse confidently and naturally—both orally and in writing—using language suited to a variety of situations.

Content aims:

- (1) To provide students with sufficient language competence to cope with the linguistic demands of real life in general, personal and social contexts.
- (2) To develop an appropriate level of inter-cultural sensitivity in students.
- (3) To continue to provide students with the necessary skills to become better language learners.

Component	When Set	%	Comment

CHN4062: Level D (HE Further Advanced) Chinese 1

Module Leader: Miss Linlin Fang

Semesters 1 & 2, 40 credits total

Pre-requisites: Students must either complete Level C (for those students who started at Level B) or pass the streaming test (or have HSK5 equivalent level) if they started at Level A.

This module provides students with academic competence in advanced Chinese. Students will master vocabulary, grammatical structures, writing and speaking styles at an advanced level. By the end of the module, students will be able to write in a variety of written Chinese styles; students will be able to read a variety of authentic texts; students will have developed the ability to converse confidently in Chinese.

In addition to the above objectives, this module also aims to

- 1) To develop an appropriate level of intercultural sensitivity in students to enable successful interpersonal communication in a range of different situations.
- 2) To continue to equip students with the necessary skills to become better language learners.

SEL3326/7: Extended Study: Linguistics and English Language

Module Leader: Dr Gabriel Martinez Vera

Semester 1 or 2, 20 credits

No pre-requisites

This module aims to allow students to develop in depth a topic which may draw on but also extend material studied in one (or more) of their English Language and Linguistics modules. To foster independent thinking and develop research skills in critical thinking, writing and presentation. These aims will be achieved by students doing independent research in an English language/linguistics topic, and writing up their results in an extended essay (5000 words). In this, they will be helped by a supervisor, i.e. a member of staff with relevant expertise in the general topic area that the student is working in.

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Essay	End	100	5000 words

SML4099 – Dissertation/T&I Project

Module Leader: Dr Damien Hall

Semesters 1 & 2, 20 credits total

No pre-requisites

This module aims to allow students to undertake independent research into a specialised area with individual supervision. Students may choose an appropriate topic with guidance from the module leader or supervisor. The area studied should normally fit in with the areas of expertise amongst SML staff, including European, Latin American and Chinese and Japanese film, literature, history and linguistics. Exceptionally in some years, if the topic dictates it, members of academic staff outside SML can supervise dissertations. The chosen topic should be within a broad area which the student has studied previously. There will be four workshops led by the module leader within which students will learn and develop research skills and present their own research. Each student will receive at least four hours of individual supervision (up to a maximum of six where necessary). This module is particularly appropriate for students considering postgraduate study.

SEL3005: Origins and Evolution of Language

Module Leader: Dr Christine Cuskley

Semester 1, 20 credits

No pre-requisites

Aims: To examine recent theories of language origins and evolution from a linguistic perspective; to examine work on the physical evidence concerning the origins of language, especially from a linguistic perspective; to consider additional evidence from a biological, anthropological, neurological and palaeontological perspective.

Component	When Set	%	Comment

SEL3413: Language and Ageing

Module Leader: Dr Heike Pichler

Semester 1, 20 credits

Pre-requisites: SEL1032 - Students who did not take SEL2091 Stage 2 are strongly advised to consult the module leader before registering for this module.

Incoming exchange students need a good foundation variationist sociolinguistics (esp. in terms of fieldwork methods & data analysis).

This advanced module in sociolinguistics takes a multi-disciplinary approach to examining patterns of language variation and change in later life. It teaches students the key methodological challenges and theoretical imperatives for studying the language use of older adults, and explores with them how insights from gerontology, geriatrics and cognitive psychology can enrich our understanding of the mechanisms underpinning language variation and change in older adults. Students will learn to apply the following to the analysis and interpretation of vernacular speech data from older adults: advanced methodological tools from variationist sociolinguistics; ongoing discoveries about language and ageing from across the language sciences; and multi-disciplinary insights into the complexity of age and ageing from the health and social sciences. Students will also participate in reciprocal intergenerational learning activities with older community members, which will enhance their intergenerational communication skills and support their development as socially responsive and responsible citizens in age-friendly communities. These activities will also ensure that students' findings from their project work reach a wider audience of non-linguists.

SEL3430: Advanced Second Language Acquisition

Module Leader: Dr Sujeewa Hettiarachchi

Semester 2, 20 credits

Pre-requisites: SEL1027 & SEL2237

This module will advance students' understanding of different aspects and theories of Second Language Acquisition (SLA). It will explore how different acquisition contexts (e.g. classroom learning vs. community acquisition), different external factors (e.g. cognitive, psychological, social), and different literacy levels affect second language development. It will also examine how universals and first-language transfer affect second language acquisition across different linguistic domains (morpho-syntax, phonology, lexicon). Students will acquire advanced knowledge of SLA theories and develop advanced skills in analysing second language data.

Report	Mid	Formative	500-word report on an aspect of SLA

SEL3431: Laboratory Phonology

Module Leader: Dr Rory Turnbull

Semester 2, 20 credits

Pre-requisites: SEL1027 & SEL2000

This module aims to develop students' research skills by bringing together phonological theory and experimental techniques. The module will cover skills related to reading literature in Laboratory Phonology, becoming familiar with experimental techniques in the field, and designing experiments.

This course examines the relationship between phonological theory and experiments. The specific topics covered will vary from year to year. The topics covered may include one or more of the following: intonation and prosody, phonation, speech perception, typological patterns in phonology, computational linguistics, statistical techniques, among others. A detailed schedule will be provided at the start of the module.

SEL3441: Medieval and Early Modern Meaning: English Historical Semantics

Module Leader: Dr Adam Mearns

Semester 2, 20 credits

Pre-requisites: SEL1028

This module gives you the chance to explore a fundamental aspect in the history of the English language: the meanings of words and the ways in which they have changed across the centuries, from Old English (c.500-1100 AD), through Middle English (c.1100-1500), and into Early Modern English (c.1500-1750). We will examine both the evolving meanings of individual words and the crucial issue of how groups of related words work together in lexical and semantic fields, with changes in individual terms often having much wider implications for the way in which certain areas of life and human experience were conceived, discussed, and represented in the literature of earlier periods. To add depth to our investigation of these issues, we will also consider the sociohistorical contexts and their impact, e.g. in terms of the way in which key events established channels for loanwords from other languages to enter, and change, the vocabulary of English. As well as helping you to develop a detailed understanding of the English lexicon in its historical context, this module provides an opportunity for you to enrich your understanding and skills in the wider study of language and linguistics in two key areas. First, it will introduce you to current frameworks that inform not only the study of English historical semantics, but of lexical semantics in general and linguistic features more broadly, encouraging you to make a critical evaluation of their strengths and weaknesses as you apply them to the study of medieval and early modern English words. Second, with the module's focus on empirical data, you will be further enhancing your general analytical skills and your familiarity in working with cutting-edge digital resources, in the form of the online dictionaries, thesauruses, databases, and corpora of historical English texts that will be at the heart of your research.

SEL3448: Current Issues in Linguistics

Module Leader: Dr Gabriel Martinez Vera

Semester 1, 20 credits

Pre-requisites: SEL2230 or SEL2237

This module examines current debates and cutting-edge scholarly research in linguistics, focusing primarily on key research from the last 5-10 years. Each year this module covers a specialist topic spanning the subject area's world-class research expertise in linguistic theory, language evolution, acquisition and development, and language variation and change. Primary literature in the chosen topic will be discussed at length, building critical thinking skills by concentrating on current state-of-the-art research in the field. Students will take an active role in leading the discussion, gaining key skills in presentation of complex research and an in-depth understanding of knowledge creation within the field. The core topic for academic year 2025-26 is Multilingualism.

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Portfolio	Mid	60	A portfolio including oral presentation about current primary research and written reflections regarding engagement with primary research, 1500-2000 words
Written exercise	End	40	Mock academic peer review exercise, 1000 words

SEL3454: New Words in English

Module Leader: Dr William van der Wurff

Semester 1, 20 credits

Pre-requisites: SEL1027

The themes to be covered in the lectures (further discussed/applied in the small group classes) will include: data and methods of data collection, the structure of different types of new words, the issue of morphological productivity, issues in measuring lexical frequency, new lexis in recent English, and theoretical issues involved in the study of these topics. Special attention will be paid to practical issues arising in doing actual research on new words.

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Written examination	Mid	35	50-minute examination testing knowledge and understanding of methods and concepts of new-word analysis
Essay	End	65	Final essay, testing ability to collect and analyse data for the purpose of answering a research question

SEL2000: Phonological Theory

Module Leader: Dr Rory Turnbull & Dr Niamh Kelly

Semester 1, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: SEL1027

A course in intermediate phonology, this module builds on the foundations laid in SEL1027, introducing theoretical models of phonology. The aim is for students to investigate a number of phonological models, including both derivational and optimality theoretic, in order for them to come to an understanding of how evidence and argumentation are used in phonological theory building.

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Problem solving exercise	Mid	20	This will consist of a data analysis problem set

SEL2089: Syntactic Theory

Module Leader: Dr Geoffrey Poole

Semester 1, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: SEL1028

Following on from SEL1028, this module provides a more comprehensive and deeper understanding of the syntax of natural language with modern English as the main object of study. Topics to be addressed may include phrase structure (X'-Theory), argument structure (theta-roles), Case, agreement, noun phrase structure, binding, various kinds of movement, architecture of grammar and syntactic variation. Not necessarily all of these are covered every year.

SEL2091: Sociolinguistics

Module Leader: Dr Daniel Duncan

Semester 1, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

No pre-requisites

This module builds on the knowledge of language variation & change and data analysis skills obtained in SEL1032 in order to develop a fuller understanding of sociolinguistics. It introduces this domain of linguistics from two perspectives:

- Microsociolinguistics, the study of language variation and change at the level of individuals, groups, and communities. With particular emphasis on the framework of variationist sociolinguistics, the module explores how linguistic variation is influenced by societal factors like social class and ethnicity.
- Macrosociolinguistics, the study of language at the societal level. With particular emphasis on the sociology of language, the module explores how society shapes broader linguistic outcomes like language maintenance or shift, language endangerment, and the development of pidgins and creoles.

This module refines data analysis skills by further developing quantitative reasoning skills. It adds basic inferential statistics to the analytical toolkit and explores how these are used to refine and test linguistic hypotheses.

Component	When Set	%	Comment
Reflective Log	Mid	20	Sociolinguistic interview and reflection, 500 words in total.
Portfolio	End	80	Quantitative and qualitative research write-up, 3000 words in total.

SEL2212: Early English: Texts, Patterns and Varieties

Module Leader: Professor Karen Corrigan

Semester 2, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: Students must have completed SEL1032 or have the permission of the module leader to enrol on this module. For incoming exchange students: basic introductory course(s) in linguistics.

Module aims:

- To develop students' competence in reading texts from a variety of periods in the history of English;
- To develop students' ability to analyse linguistic features of texts;
- To build on the knowledge and skills relating to language change gained in SEL1032 (Language Variation and Change);
- To enhance students' knowledge of the processes by which the English language has evolved into its present-day state;
- To develop competence in using dictionaries, historical corpora and other electronic resources.

SEL2229: Experimental Methods in Linguistics

Module Leader: Dr Christine Cuskley

Semester 2, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: Students must have completed SEL1027 and SEL1032, or have the permission of the module leader to enrol on this module.

This course provides a broad overview of the foundational issues with respect to experimental methodology in linguistics. Lectures will cover theoretical and philosophical considerations, methodological approaches and issues, and tools used in data collection. By the end of the course, students will be able to critically evaluate experimental research in linguistics, from both theoretical and methodological points of view. Alongside this, students will learn the basic skills necessary for carrying out their own experimental research project, including experimental design, data wrangling, and statistical analysis.

Component	When Set	%	Comment

SEL2234: Pragmatic Theory

Module Leader: Dr Gabriel Martinez Vera

Semester 1, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: SEL1027 & SEL1028

This module concentrates on the study of meaning at the level of pragmatics, i.e., on how we create meaning from the linguistic expressions that we utter in context (e.g., in exchanges). It introduces foundational notions in pragmatics and provides tools to analyse phenomena in the field. It further discusses pragmatics and its relation to other domains of grammar and introduces different research methods to collect and annotate data.

SEL2235: CHiLD Current Hypotheses in Language Development

Module Leader: Dr Emma Nguyen & Dr Rebecca Woods

Semester 2, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: SEL1027 & SEL1028

Language is an incredibly complex system of knowledge. Not only are there multiple levels of representation - sounds and words and phrases and whole utterances and meanings - but within a given level, even simple forms can be derived from multiple interacting pieces of knowledge. Yet as speakers of any given language, we are often blissfully unaware of how much we need to know in order to be able to communicate with language.

One of the most striking things about language is that all typically-developing children learn their native language flawlessly, especially when compared to adults trying to accomplish the same task. This is true despite adults' superior cognitive skills. Children of the world seem somehow suited for language acquisition in a way that adult humans - and other animals - are not.

In this module, we survey the broad topic of language acquisition, focusing not only on children's developmental trajectory, but also on what knowledge of language is, how language acquisition relates to cognition in general, and acquisition of language by speakers with sensory or cognitive deficits.

SEL2237: Introduction to Second Language Learning and Teaching

Module Leader: Dr Sujeewa Hettiarachchi

Semester 1, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: SEL1027

This module introduces students to the fundamental theories and practices involved in learning and teaching second languages. It explores the relationship between key concepts in second language acquisition (SLA) and the dominant approaches and methods in English language teaching (ELT), situating them within their theoretical and historical contexts. By engaging with both learning and teaching perspectives, this module equips students with the knowledge and skills to critically evaluate SLA theories and teaching methodologies, preparing them for advanced academic and professional roles in language education.

SEL2239: Experimental Practicum

Module Leader: Dr Rebecca Woods and Dr Emma Nguyen

Semester 2, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisite: SEL2229

The job of a linguist is to scientifically study language in order to capture and explain patterns of linguistic structures and language usage. In order to do this, a linguist makes use of certain tools in their toolbox. The aim of the Practicum module is to provide students with practical research experience and skills while working under the supervision of an established researcher. Additionally, students would be introduced to the methodologies and approaches to data analysis used in formal linguistic investigations of language acquisition.

Students will gain hands-on research experience by being able to contribute to at least one of the following elements of the research process:

- Information gathering, including systematic literature searches and evidence synthesis
- Aspects of data collection, including building studies to be run in the Linguistics Lab and/or Science Adventures and/or on data collection platforms
- Data manipulation, including data screening and cleaning, data entry/ transcription/coding, and data analysis

Whereas a course on language acquisition and development (e.g. SEL2235 and SEL3438) may focus on the process of development and what it means to become a speaker of a language, this course focuses specifically on how we experimentally investigate acquisition and the competence of language learners through carefully designed linguistic experiments and the practical application of this knowledge.

SEL2441: Philosophy of Linguistics

Module Leader: Dr Geoff Poole

Semester 2, 20 credits

Students may take up to one stage 2 module, students may not take the same module twice.

Pre-requisites: SEL1028

The first part of the module (prior to the Easter break) considers two fundamental and interrelated philosophical questions about language: (1) What is it, really? and (2) How do we (or should we) study it? It examines a number of different approaches, particularly as they were developed during the course of the 20th century: language as a physical object, language as behavior, language as a property of communities, and language as a property of mind.

The post-Easter weeks will apply the pre-Easter foundational/philosophical discussion to various past and present controversies in language and linguistics (e.g., linguistic determinism (aka the Sapir-Whorf Hypothesis), whether generative AI systems actually do (or even could) 'have language' (or 'be intelligent'), and linguistic issues connected to class, gender, and disability).
