AT NEWCASTLE UNIVERSITY,
ENGLAND

Welcome to Newcastle

Newcastle is regarded as the capital of the North East of England. It's a lively, student-friendly, cosmopolitan city, located beside one of the North's major rivers, the Tyne.

Here are 10 reasons why our students consider Newcastle their second home...

3 World-class music, comedy, cinema, nightlife, food, shopping and sport are available right in the city centre

4 We are ranked 4th in the UK for Sustainable Development (THE Impact Rankings 2023)

5 Stunning countryside and World Heritage Sites are only a bus ride away and it's just 25 minutes to the beach

6 Our friendly, multicultural city attracts students from 120 different countries!

7 Newcastle has one of the lowest costs of living in the UK

8 One in six people in Newcastle is a student, so you'll be in good company

1 Newcastle is a vibrant and lively city, rich in history and culture

2 Everything is within walking distance so you're never far from what's going on

9 Along the River Tyne, you'll find iconic bridges and international arts venues, restaurants and bars which form the Quayside

10 There are excellent rail transport links in the city centre with other UK cities and we have our own international airport

Why Newcastle?

Getting here

Newcastle is well connected, with a train station, coach station, international airport and even a ferry terminal. So, wherever you live, we're closer than you think!

Student life

Our vibrant student city is waiting to welcome you! With so many ways to enjoy your spare time, you'll be making memories that last a lifetime.

Social and Cultural Programme

The university offers a complimentary social and cultural programme to help Study Abroad students make the most of their semester or year in England. Students will attend live sporting and performance events, hike ancient trails, roam castle ruins, sample regional foods and visit the famous landmarks and attractions that make England's North so special!

Sports Centre

Every sport and fitness activity has an ideal setting and here at Newcastle, you'll find we've covered all the bases. With a recent £30 million investment in our facilities, the university offers exceptional environments for all of our Study Abroad students' sporting needs.

Ranked in the top ten British Universities and Colleges Sport league for four consecutive years, Newcastle is one of the best places to study when it comes to taking part in sport.

Students' Union (NUSU)

Our large Students' Union plays a major part in shaping your Newcastle experience. The Students' Union headquarters are located in the heart of campus, inside a beautiful five story building containing restaurants, a large grocery store, coffee shops, concert space, a bar, study space, and an advice centre.

NUSU organise varied volunteering opportunities for students each year and run the 'Give it a Go' programme which offers hundreds of discounted activities over term-time. NUSU also oversee the running of over 160 student societies ranging from Surfing, Comedy, Bee-keeping and Baking and we encourage Study Abroad students to join as many as they can!

Entertainment

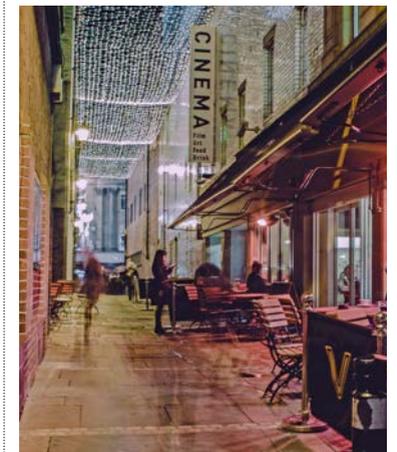

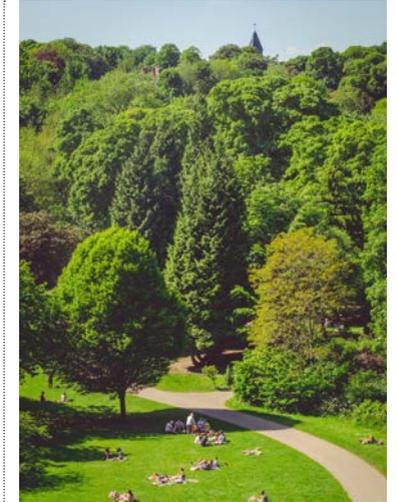

Newcastle is well known for its fantastic nightlife and this is one of the reasons the city is always voted as one of the UK's greatest student hubs. There's a great mix of bars, pubs and clubs across the city, boutique bowling alleys, live music venues, late-night cafés, theatres, cinemas and restaurants to suit every budget. There are many cultural attractions to visit too: The Great North Museum, which is on campus, has a planetarium and an interactive model of Hadrian's Wall among other collections.

There are a variety of art galleries close to campus, including the Hatton Gallery where Fine Art students exhibit their work, and the famous Baltic Centre for Contemporary Arts on the south side of the River Tyne.

For live music enthusiasts, weekly acoustic sessions are held in the Students' Union and there's the lunchtime concert series LIVE in the beautiful and historic King's Hall. Off campus, you'll discover world-famous acts performing at the Utilita Arena, the Sage Gateshead and the O2 Academy. Smaller venues like The Cluny, the Cumberland Arms and the Tyne Bar champion up-and-coming and local musicians throughout the week.

Cafés and restaurants

You don't even need to leave campus for a delicious snack or meal in Newcastle. There are 16 cafés and restaurants on campus providing a wide range of nutritious, sustainable and Fairtrade products. Whatever your tastes, you'll enjoy the range of meal options here at Newcastle - although don't return home without trying British favourites, fish and chips and sticky toffee pudding! Off-campus, students choose from 600+ fantastic eateries that can be found across the city.

There's a long tradition of excellence in teaching at Newcastle University and this has been recognised in external surveys and assessments by students.

Newcastle University's teaching staff are leaders in their field, providing outstanding experience for visiting students. Learning will be supported by specialist subject facilities, including:

- high specification labs and clinical skills suites
- studios and rehearsal spaces
- on-campus museum and art gallery
- two commercial farms and a biological field station
- a sea-going research vessel, coastal station and marine lab
- a £350 million urban regeneration project, Newcastle Helix.

Study Abroad students normally register for three or four modules (classes) over a semester. Most students attend for one semester (starting in either September or January) although some choose to stay the full academic year. Provisional module selections are made during the application process but students will confirm choices on arrival in Newcastle. Our Module Catalogue (Class List) contains more than 900 modules in a range of subject areas.

Most Study Abroad students transfer the academic credits they earn in Newcastle back to their home institution. Newcastle University will issue students with an official Academic Transcript on completion of the programme.

The Study Abroad Team encourage applicants to contact them with any questions about module choices and availability.

Having lectures, workshops, fieldtrips, practical, and other different types of sessions really helped me to engage with lecture materials that were given out. The lecturers were also very open to questions and replied promptly to inquiries.

Your home

Once you are accepted to Study Abroad at Newcastle University, you will apply for housing. Study Abroad Students tend to stay in University Housing – residence halls that are within walking distance of the town and campus.

Our residences are moderately priced compared to most in the UK and all offer single occupancy, so you can enjoy the privacy of your own personal space.

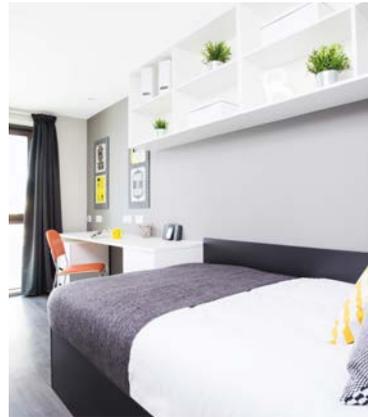

Each bedroom comes equipped with a bed, a desk, a chair, a wardrobe and shelving for your books and belongings. Some rooms have en-suite bathrooms but if not, you'll share a bathroom with approximately 4-6 other students in your 'flat'. Most residences don't offer a meal-plan; instead you will cook in a shared kitchen and enjoy mealtimes with your new 'flatmates'.

I will never forget the British friends I have made. My flatmates were very welcoming and choosing to spend time with them rather than in my room made my experience so much more enjoyable.

ResLife programme

The Residence Life Team at Newcastle University aims to support all of our students within University-owned and managed partnership accommodation to make your living experience the best it can be.

The team aim to create a sense of belonging and community through an organised events programme that includes photo/scavenger hunts and inter-hall competitions, to movie nights and cooking classes. You'll benefit from free interactive 'ResLife Hacks' on topics such as healthy living, drug and alcohol awareness, finances and budgeting, safety and security, sustainability and handling difficult dialogues and situations.

Top tips for exploring Newcastle and beyond

There's enough in Newcastle to keep you busy all year round but don't let our city-centre attractions stop you exploring further afield. Newcastle is the ideal base for discovering the North East of England.

These are just some of our favourite places...

Soak up some culture

The city has a wealth of opportunities to indulge your intellectual side and is alive with art and creative energy too. There are numerous theatres including the gorgeous Theatre Royal for everything from ballet to musicals. Catch a performance at the Sage Gateshead, a world-class concert hall home to the Northern Sinfonia, and browse modern art at BALTIC, an art gallery in a former grain mill.

Explore the Ouseburn

The Ouseburn valley is the creative heart of Newcastle. Set in picturesque surroundings, Ouseburn is a former industrial area that has been regenerated. Now home to studio spaces, independent bars and restaurants, and popular live music venues, the Ouseburn is perfect for catching up-and-coming local and international bands.

Coastal towns

Just 25 minutes away by Metro, Whitley Bay and Tynemouth are easily accessible and provide a wealth of seaside delights: boasting a ruined priory, three Blue Flag beaches, fish and chips, surf lessons, ice cream, an aquarium, craft markets and more...

Take a surf lesson

Tynemouth Longsands is the go-to destination for many of the UK's top pro surfers. This curved golden beach is a popular place to learn to surf and a number of qualified surf schools provide lessons for people of all abilities. If you don't fancy getting wet, watch the action from the brilliant beach front cafés.

Stroll along the prom

Grab a bag of chips from Whitley Bay seafront and enjoy them as you stroll along the prom. Alternatively, the long and relatively empty beaches are great for kite flying, Frisbee and volleyball. If you're feeling brave, Whitley Bay also has a sea swimming club.

Angel of the North

Take a trip to see one of the North's most iconic landmarks. Antony Gormley's super statue has been welcoming visitors to the region for nearly 25 years.

Hadrian's Wall

Hadrian's Wall marks the edge of the Roman frontier. The Wall is still visible in places in the city but the best way to experience this World Heritage Site is to set off into the countryside, where forts like Housesteads and Birdoswald give a glimpse into life in Roman Britain.

Durham

15 minutes on the train takes you to the World Heritage Sites in Durham, with its quaint streets and spectacular castle and cathedral.

Alnwick Castle

Based in Northumberland, Alnwick Castle transports you back in time. Explore the castle's cellars, museums and art collection. If the castle looks familiar, you might recognise it from the first two Harry Potter films!

the lingo...
