Welcome!

We hope you enjoyed your summer. If this is your first day, week or even hour here at Newcastle University, welcome and congratulations for achieving your place on your degree. It's great to have you on campus here in Newcastle.

The Your Newcastle - Induction, Orientations, and Guide course has been created to support you in your first few days, weeks, and months, as you settle into university life here in Newcastle.

This content works alongside your school induction community. The Your Newcastle course is broken up in two main parts:

The first section is all about making sure that you are aware of your responsibilities, know how to stay safe and how to access support should you need it during your time with us. It is vital that you review these pages in section one, and you complete the mandatory training in this section. As you will see from our Student Charter it is part of your responsibility as a student here at Newcastle University and our commitment to you that we have these structures in place, so you enjoy and thrive here.

The second section is your guide to Newcastle University, broken up into six pages. Each page is an area of the University that is here to support you in your time as a student to get the best out of your studies. All pages have links directly to our most up to date University internet pages. Whether you are new to the University or been here a while. It's important to review these pages just in case you need any of the links in the future.

The Your Newcastle module is open now and ready to take at any time. It is essential that you visit this module before you come and during your induction week as there are a few pages that are important to review within the first week or two. You can find Your Newcastle module through this canvas link.
