The School of Engineering accept applications for Credit Transfer and Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) for all undergraduate and postgraduate taught students at all stages in all programmes in accordance with the University Policy on Credit Transfer and the Recognition of Prior Learning.

The programmes accept applications for:

a) Credit Transfer: where the credits or qualification(s) have been awarded by a UK higher education degree awarding body in accordance with the relevant higher education qualifications framework and QCF. Credit transfer may be internal (i.e. from one Newcastle programme to another) or external.

b) Recognition of prior certificated learning: an assessment process whereby the School recognises prior learning that is at higher education level but that has not led to the award of credits or qualifications positioned on the UK higher education qualifications framework.

c) Recognition of prior experiential learning: an assessment process whereby the School recognises a student’s learning gained through experience.

The maximum number of credits for which Credit Transfer and RPL can be applied is one third (i.e. 120 credits) of a three-year undergraduate degree programme, and up to one half (i.e. 240 credits) of a four-year Integrated Masters degree programme. Specific programme requirements will apply and further information can be obtained from the Degree Programme Director.

The maximum number of credits for which Credit Transfer and RPL can be applied is 20 credits for postgraduate certificates and 40 credits for other postgraduate taught programmes (Diploma or Masters).

Normally, only learning that has taken place within the last five years can be considered.

The School is prepared to accept any application for Credit Transfer and RPL in principle. In practice, all instances will be judged on their individual merits.
