10 Programme Aims

- 1 To provide an ESRC recognised Research Master's award benchmarked against ESRC Training Guidance
- 2 To provide foundational masters training in the subject to prepare students to take a PhD
- 3 To ensure students gain a thorough grounding in the theory, approaches and research methods of both the subject and social science more generally
- 4 To provide a programme which meets the requirements for a level 7 programme in the FHEQ and complies with University policies and procedures

11 Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, qualities, skills and other attributes in the following areas.

Knowledge and Understanding

On completing the programme students should:

- A1 have a thorough understanding of social science research philosophy, theory, approaches and research methods and associated ethics
- A2 have a thorough understanding of the core premises, theoretical origins, and research questions in their discipline
- A3 have a thorough understanding of research methods, both qualitative and quantitative, in their discipline
- A4 have a sound understanding of advanced scholarship and practice in areas within the discipline as well as an awareness of cutting edge research across the social sciences

Teaching and Learning Methods

Knowledge and understanding are developed through a combination of lectures (A1, A4), reading and discussion seminars (A1-4), and practical tutorials (A1, A4). Throughout the taught components of the course, students are expected to engage in extensive independent reading and are supported in this by the provision of reading lists.

Assessment Strategy

Knowledge and understanding are assessed by a range of approaches in which students can demonstrate their newly acquired capabilities in different formats. These forms of assessment include essays (A1-4), theory development term paper (A1-4), research proposal (A1-4), critique of another student's research proposal (A1-4), leading a class discussion (A1-4), and contribution to class discussions (A1-4).

Intellectual Skills

On completing the programme students should be able to:

- B1 use and develop theory
- B2 reconcile different research approaches and analyse data in a wide variety of formats, both qualitative and quantitative
- B3 evaluate and synthesise literature in the discipline and identify research gaps
- B4 frame research contribution in the context of relevant literature in the discipline

Teaching and Learning Methods

Intellectual skills are developed through a combination of lectures (B1-4) and reading and discussion seminars (B1-4). For each seminar, students are expected to read and synthesise a list of readings and engage in an intellectual discussion facilitated by the seminar leader. Students will also have the opportunity to lead the discussion of a session of their choosing, which will strengthen further their sensemaking of the relevant disciplinary literature and enable them to take the discussion forward. All the cognitive skills (B1-4) are exercised significantly at an advanced level during the preparation and execution of the individual dissertation, supported by the disciplinary Research Designs module and tutorial supervision for individual students.

Assessment Strategy

Intellectual skills are assessed by a range of approaches that incorporate different forums in which such skills can be demonstrated. These comprise essays (B3, B4), theory development term paper (B1-4), research proposal (B1-4), critique of another student's research proposal (B1-3), leading a class discussion (B1-4), and contribution to class discussions (B1-4). There is also comprehensive assessment by means of an individual dissertation.

Practical Skills

On completing the programme students should be able to:

- C1 use the information and study skills obtained to plan and do a doctorate
- C2 carry out a literature search and review
- C3 formulate timely, interesting, and important research questions in their discipline
- C4 review and critique research papers in their discipline

Teaching and Learning Methods

Discipline- and research-specific practical skills are taught and reinforced through lectures (C3), reading and discussion seminars (C3-4), and practical tutorials (C2). All of these teaching methods complement the students' independent study and group-work. Such learning is reinforced and further developed as students apply their new skills in their extended individual dissertation (C1-4) under the guidance of their supervisor.

Assessment Strategy

Practical skills are assessed through a bibliography and critical review essays (C2, C4), theory development term paper (C3), research proposal (C2-4), critique of another student's research proposal (C4), leading a class discussion (C4), and contribution to class discussions (C4). There is also comprehensive assessment by means of an individual dissertation, the timely and successful completion of which represents a strong signal of readiness to plan and do a doctorate (C1-4).

Transferable/Key Skills

On completing the programme students should be able to:

- D1 write in a suitable academic style
- D2 present ideas effectively orally in a variety of formats
- D3 manage their own workload effectively so as to meet deadlines
- D4 use and develop theory
- D5 analyse qualitative and quantitative data effectively

Teaching and Learning Methods

To promote learning, students are encouraged to acquire, develop and utilise key skills in seminars involving discussion of assigned readings (D2, D4, D5), in the preparation of a variety of written assignments such as critical essays, theory development paper, and research proposal (D1, D3, D4), and in the planning and execution of their individual dissertation (D1, D3, D4, D5).

Assessment Strategy

Oral presentation skills (D2) are assessed through an individual audio-visual presentation and contribution to class discussions. The other key skills are not independently assessed. However, they (D1, D3-5) are indirectly assessed by the main modes of assessment for the other learning outcomes (A-C inclusive) (essays, theory development paper, research proposal, and critique of another student's research proposal) as well as by means of an individual dissertation.

12 Programme Curriculum, Structure and Features Basic structure of the programme

The programme consists of a mixture of generic research training modules offered by the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences Research Training Programme combined with more specialised modules based in the subject covering both research training and specialist knowledge. The dissertation, undertaken at the end of the programme, provides the capstone which pulls together the varying strands of the programme.

Key features of the programme (including what makes the programme distinctive)

The programme is designed to equip students for PhD study in the discipline and to be part of an ESRC 1+3 award.

The PG Diploma programme is designed to equip incoming PhD students who lack research and discipline training with research and discipline skills; it is part of a .75+3 PhD route.

The specialised NBS modules 8554 and 8556 will be shared with the first-year PhD students in the areas of management and business. This will provide students the opportunity to study alongside the PhD cohort, which will not only facilitate knowledge exchange and enhance learning, but also promote cohesiveness among the students and enable the creation of a vibrant research culture.

14 Support for Student Learning

The Student Services portal provides links to key services and other information and is available at: http://www.ncl.ac.uk/students/

Induction

During the first week of the first semester students attend an induction programme. New students will be given a general introduction to University life and the University's principle support services and general information about the School and their programme, as described in the Degree Programme Handbook. New and continuing students will be given detailed programme information and the timetable of lectures/practicals/labs/ tutorials/etc. The International Office offers an additional induction programme for overseas students.

Study skills support

Students will learn a range of Personal Transferable Skills, including Study Skills, as outlined in the Programme Specification. Some of this material, e.g. time management is covered in the appropriate Induction Programme. Students are explicitly tutored on their approach to both group and individual projects.

Numeracy support is available through Maths Aid and help with academic writing is available from the Writing Development Centre (further information is available from the Robinson Library).

Academic and Pastoral support

Each undergraduate and taught postgraduate student will be assigned a personal tutor.* A personal tutor is one part of a wider network of advice and guidance available to students to support their personal and general academic development. The module leader acts as the first point of contact for subject-specific academic advice. Thereafter the Degree Programme Director or Head of School may be consulted. Issues relating to the programme may be raised at the Student-Staff Committee, and/or at the Board of Studies. Within the academic unit, students may also receive additional academic and pastoral advice from a range of other student-facing staff including degree programme directors, dissertation/project supervisors, and administrative support staff.

*Arrangements may vary for students taking special types of provision.

The University also offers a wide range of institutional services and support upon which students can call, such as the Writing Development Centre, Careers Service and Student Wellbeing Service. This includes one-to-one counselling and guidance or group sessions / workshops on a range of topics, such as emotional issues e.g. stress and anxiety, student finance and budgeting, disability matters etc. There is specialist support available for students with dyslexia and mental health issues. Furthermore, the Student Union operates a Student Advice Centre, which can provide advocacy and support to students on a range of topics including housing, debt, legal issues etc.

Support for students with disabilities

The University's Disability Support team provides help and advice for disabled students at the University - and those thinking of coming to Newcastle. It provides individuals with: advice about the University's facilities, services and the accessibility of campus; details about the technical support available; guidance in study skills and advice on financial support arrangements; a resources room with equipment and software to assist students in their studies.

Learning resources

The University's main learning resources are provided by the Robinson and Walton Libraries (for books, journals, online resources), and Information Systems and Services, which supports campus-wide computing facilities.

All new students whose first language is not English are required to take an English Language Proficiency Test. This is administered by INTO Newcastle University Centre on behalf of Newcastle University. Where appropriate, in-sessional language training can be provided. The INTO Newcastle University Centre houses a range of resources which may be particularly appropriate for those interested in an Erasmus exchange.

15 Methods for evaluating and improving the quality and standards of teaching and learning

Module reviews

All modules are subject to review by questionnaires which are considered by the Board of Studies. Changes to, or the introduction of new, modules are considered at the Board of Studies and/or the School Teaching and Learning Committee. Student opinion is sought at the Staff-Student Committee and/or the Board of Studies. New modules and major changes to existing modules are subject to approval by the Faculty Learning, Teaching and Student Experience Committee.

Programme reviews

The Board of Studies conducts an Annual Monitoring and Review of the degree programme and reports to Faculty Learning, Teaching and Student Experience Committee. The FLTSEC takes an overview of all programmes within the Faculty and reports any Faculty or institutional issues to the Faculty Learning, Teaching and Student Experience Committee.

External Examiner reports

External Examiner reports are considered by the Board of Studies. The Board responds to these reports through Faculty Learning, Teaching and Student Experience Committee. External Examiner reports are shared with institutional student representatives, through the Staff-Student Committee.

Student evaluations

All modules, and the degree programme, are subject to review by student questionnaires. Informal student evaluation is also obtained at the Staff-Student Committee, and the Board of Studies. The results from student surveys are considered as part of the Annual Monitoring and Review of the programme and any arising actions are captured at programme and School / institutional level and reported to the appropriate body.

Mechanisms for gaining student feedback Feedback is channelled via the Staff-Student Committee and the Board of Studies.

Faculty and University Review Mechanisms

Every six years degree programmes in each subject area undergo periodic review. This involves both the detailed consideration of a range of documentation, and a review visit by a review team (normally one day in duration) which includes an external subject specialist and a student representative. Following the review a report is produced, which forms the basis for a decision by University Learning, Teaching and Student Experience Committee on whether the programmes reviewed should be re-approved for a further six year period.

Accreditation reports None.
